Dear Martine,

Re: Database and Payments Administrator

I am writing to apply for the Database and Payments Administrator role at Ealing Abbey Counselling Service. I am an organised and careful person who is good with numbers and data, and I would really like to support a small team doing important work in the community.

I think this role suits me well. In my job at Pythian, I worked on a large data project where I helped move over 600 records and database objects to a new system, making sure the data stayed accurate and consistent. I also checked and tested the data carefully and sorted out any errors I found. This is similar to checking payments and keeping attendance and payment records correct at EACS. I am confident using Microsoft Excel, Word and Outlook, and as a Computer Science graduate and current MSc student, I learn new systems quickly, so I would soon be comfortable with CORE Net and SumUp.

I also enjoy working with people. In my previous role I spoke with clients regularly and explained things clearly, so I would be happy to follow up with your volunteer counsellors in a friendly and polite way. I am reliable, good at managing my time, and able to work well both on my own and as part of a team. I also understand how important it is to keep information confidential.

I do not have direct experience in counselling services, but I am genuinely interested in the charity sector and in supporting services that help people. The hours and the Ealing location suit me well, and I would be glad to discuss my application further.

Thank you for considering my application.

Yours sincerely,
